

Consent for S.T. Peel microdermabrasion treatments

Certain conditions are recommended for effective epidermabrasion.

Epidermabrasion is a relatively new procedure performed by a licensed esthetician, involving skin resurfacing by exfoliating the outer layers of the skin. This is accomplished by a computerized machine which projects inert crystals (corundum powder) in a fine layer over the skin. The procedure is painless, with literally no recovery time, for most people, though there are a few areas of the face where the procedure may feel slightly uncomfortable. Microdermabrasion has been successful in dramatically reducing, if not totally removing the appearance of small scars, large pores, hyper pigmented spots, fine lines, stretch marks, wrinkles, comedons and sebaceous micro cysts. Because of its ability to enhance the growth of collagen and elastin, while encouraging new, healthy cell growth the appearance of the skin takes several treatments (average of six) the number of which varies with each individual. _____ (initials)

Because of the use of very small crystals, the ears and the eyes are to be kept covered during the procedure. It is recommended that contact lenses be removed prior to the procedure. _____ (initials)

The skin is cleansed before and after the procedure. Due to the unavoidable spread of crystals in the hair and possibly the clothes, it is strongly recommended that the client shower before retiring that evening. While these crystals are not a known allergen, the possibility of an irritation always exists due to the individuality of each client. _____ (initials)

During cold sore, herpes simplex or inflammatory acne eruptions, it is necessary to use neutral pH(7) moisturizers and to wear a protective sun screen no less than SPF 15. Failure to wear sun screen can result in severe sunburn on your face, and skin damage could occur. _____ (initials)

Are you Diabetic, a user of anticoagulant (prescribed drug), or have been tested HIV positive?

If yes, you must avoid Epidermabrasion treatments all together. _____ (initials)

While many satisfying results are achieved from a 6 treatment cure, there is no way to guarantee that the desired effect will be achieved within that delay. Your own body response is a major factor in the result process. _____ (initials)

I have read the preceding explanations, the S.T. Peel instructions and understand the potential risks and benefits of treatment. I agree to wear sun screen to protect my skin after treatment. I also understand that the best result is achieved with a series of 6 weekly procedures and of maintenance treatments of monthly procedures thereafter.
